

Do you Dream of Being a High Risk Investor?

Ever had the itch to invest in the futures market or options? Have you been trying to pick winning stocks? After seeing the rise of Powerball last week, more than a few of us have to admit we sometimes wish we could hit it big.

Well, yours truly recently presented some research about high risk investors to a couple financial planning groups. Here is a video for your viewing pleasure: <http://guidewayfinancial.com/videos>. Move over Downton Abbey! While the main topic is high risk investors, the presentation talks at great length about viewing risk as the probability of shortfall, the characteristics of good low-risk investments, and a four-layer approach to sensibly participate in higher-risk investments when appropriate. It's highly recommended for anyone who has nothing better to do. Or, for those who want to figure out if high risk investing is right for them.

-- Jim

